

Love Letters To My Beloved

Chris Madsen – February, March 2016

Track 1 Your Breath

My Beloved, it is your breath I breathe. It is your light that sustains the Sun, your light that fills and gives me life now. It is your earth that supports me. The beauty of your earth carries me to bliss. The fruit of your land nurtures and sustains me.

My Beloved, your breeze caresses me as your melodies through shoreline and trees lull me into the rhythms of your song. Whispered within them is the truth that heaven is where Love flows. I receive heaven now.

My Beloved, to many your face is invisible and hidden. The eyes that look with the eyes of Love see you clearly. Standing with outstretched arms and heart the noonday Sun reveals your smile as the sky adorns your being. I see me through your eyes as you are beheld through mine. Together we mingle in the secret place where Love beholds its own Self.

My Beloved, the ocean tides forever dance in celebration as the rivers flow in the procession where Lover and Beloved join. Together they are held by the shores loving hands. The sky offers the space for the effulgence of all that adorns them from above to enter the procession and dance. Within it all gifts from the Beloved shower and fill the deepest crevices within my being. All that I am is offered in return.

Track 2 Your Gifts

My Beloved, the trees are with me now in holy praise. Winters cloak is now being lifted as the sacred cycles unfurl the seed and life buried within your grounds. Beautifully broken I embrace these winds that now bring change. Your Sun now is returning and shall give many treasures held within your lands. Lavish and boundless are your offerings. Without measure you pour out sustenance for body, spirit, and soul.

My Beloved, when I rise it is you that watches over me through the night. Through the day my heartbeat, breath, and life force are sustained each moment by you. You go before me as I journey. You gently lead me. Tender and soft is your voice. I am attuned to your whisper. There are those who do not hear your voice. Deafened by their own thoughts they cannot hear what is carried over still waters. Softly Love speaks directly into the heart. My heart now is a canyon filled and echoing your speech.

My Beloved, when I thirst you lead me to pure waters. When I hunger I am filled by you. The end of suffering fills the space where we meet. The gift of pain fulfils its purpose and is no more as your healing is spoken into my body temple in this space. I laugh and run as the deer and play as a child in Springtime meadows. It is you that uplift me. Wholeness is received as arrival where all paths lead to is entered.

My Beloved, all things are revealed to you. All that is moves within your being. All that I am is known by you. Gentle is your loving guidance in my life. You reveal your Self to me as I enter the inner temple. At this altar our Love is exchanged in the ecstasy of total surrender. I sacrifice upon this altar all that is not Love within me that I may join you here within the holy of Holies. My soul, spirit and body are at one here.

Track 3 Called By You

My Beloved, when I was a child I prayed and called out often to you. Now, in your presence prayer is not required. In communion with you your will and ways are felt by me. My mind is filled with your thoughts. Love freely gives all it is. My words to you have now become the echo of your own heart. You speak the word and it is done. If there is to be prayer yet given, let it be that my words speak what is revealed to me in this communion with you. Not only my words, but my thoughts, spirit, visions, meditations, body and soul, may they be attuned to this communion.

My Beloved, here in the inner sanctuary of our hearts no words are required. Holy stillness speaks beyond words. I am held in your loving embrace. I hold you as the sun holds the earth it shines upon. Together in this stillness all creation is blessed by our Love. The doors of our sanctuary are opened for all who find the pathway here. Our Love is the light showing this doorway.

My Beloved, nameless and boundless you hold all existence within your Self. Within your soul you formed me. I yearned for you as you heard my yearning even before my body was knit and my spirit breathed into by you. Fashioned by your hands that only know Love, my yearning is now replaced by the ecstasy of that which is nameless and boundless.

My Beloved, you bid me to walk with you. Hidden truths are revealed to me as the depth of your knowledge and wisdom are shared. All that is held within time and space is known by you. All within the infinite sea of potential is held in your thoughts as well. You welcome me to vision and manifest from this sea of infinite possibilities. All Is manifest within you. I enter your field where my thoughts emerge into form. Everywhere and in all that is was your allowing it to be. The mystery of your ways is shown to those who dwell in the house of Love and plant seed in your field. The Great Mystery reveals all secrets to its lover. I intently listen now to my Beloved.

Track 4 The Master Artist

My Beloved, patiently and quietly you waited for me. When I turned to listen to clanging voices your sweet song was readied for me if I should choose to listen. When I entered dark caverns you placed a light at the entrance to show me the way out. When the deceiver came to trick me you allowed me to see beyond the lies. Safe am I now here in the inner chamber. I have heard your song, followed your light, and buried truth deep within me.

My Beloved, you are the master artist. Everywhere your work is on display. The ever changing sky proclaims the wondrous nature of your skilled hands. The lands and seas are a canvas and sculpture you form ever changing works of art within. You weave life forms into being and place your breath within them. You carve mountains and valleys and plains. You fill them with life giving plants and herbs and grasses and trees. Endless is your creative force. What skill I am given is from your Love to me. I desire to use whatever is given to do as you my Beloved have done for me. All that is formed through me is an offering to You my beloved.

My Beloved, I have been enchanted by the sweetest summer nights. The scents and warm breeze have left me swirling in the nectar of its orchard. I have felt the bitter cold of the north wind as winter blanketed and hid the summers chanting. You carry my soul beyond all earthly seasons. Here, pure rapture into the heart of Love removes all veils that separates Beloved from beloved. The light that upholds the sun, moon, and stars spring from this place. The purpose of all seasons is beheld here. The chalice of true communion is drunk from in this place where the eternal season of Love is dwelled within. I now enter the open gate into the heart of Love. The eternal circle of Love is entered where neither beginning or ending is known, only greater unfolding and emerging within itself. My Beloved dwells here.

Track 5 The Field Of Radiance

My Beloved, both the moth and eagle fly across the Sun. Your sky upholds them as equals. I too have been given wings and go beyond both Sun and sky. I have entered the Sun and held it in my hands, gone beyond the stars and covering of the earth. It is here we dance. I feel your breath gently stirring over all the lands. The water caressing the sky in praise is held within your embrace and flows through your hands. Together we look at my body temple flowing in a rhythm with it all as well. In this space I become a living prayer. In this space it is you that embodies me.

My Beloved, the scholar speaks of you as something to be fragmented and then discussed. The priest as a king requiring alms and homage. To many your face is hidden as they bury their own faces in dark places. They seek light while covering their eyes to it. They seek but do not turn to your radiance. The child at play has yet to enter the dark caves. May all souls be led out of these caverns now and the entrances be sealed. May all enter this field of radiance where child and lovers of light gather. Naked and pure sacred souls are shined upon here. All is revealed here as your face is beheld within all faces. I would stand in this field if even alone. Yet, I am not alone here. The Titans of Love surround my meditation, the innocent laugh amongst the flowers and play upon the shoreline here. It is my Beloved that sits with me here.

Track 6 The Potter

My Beloved, I have become wet clay to be formed by your potters' hands. Fired in the furnace of your Love I am prepared to be a vessel to hold the anointing oil Love uses. Both vessel and oil are yours. Freely and willingly I am to be poured out when your hand lifts me. Gladly I will wait upon your altar or be carried to those returning to your altar where Love brings fullness of life. This same oil being lit on fire and carried through the dark caves and caverns leading all to the field of the Sun, I am yours to be used my Beloved.

My Beloved, in the mundane you visit me and I am filled with the vibrancy of your touch. The grey turns to rainbows and frozen streams are as waterfalls of paradise. I turn my gaze to you. I am filled to overflowing. I meditate on you and am flooded in your serenity. I rest within you. Soft is your touch, tender is your voice.

My Beloved, you lift me from the noise and din of the world of man. The muck and dank energies have no power over me here in our secret cove. Pure Love showers over me here. I am not a mirror reflecting your Love. In this place I have become a fountain we both drink from. You have given me all I am. Here in our sanctuary it is I who now return to you all that I have become.

Track 7 I Am Filled

My Beloved, your voice is as the most beautiful of song. It vibrates into the core of my being. All that is Love is felt. I am like a musical instrument, the strings resonating in harmony to your voice. Attuned, harmony and melody join with yours. The rhythms of my life are held within this song. The seasons flow to it as all within them are given your song. I am at one with your song.

My Beloved, thank you. Through you I am sustained and thrive. My heart dances as a flame of your fire, a wave of your ocean. Rapture is in this dance. The fullness of vibrant life is infused within the entirety of my being. Thank you. Your gifts to me are endless. My very heart beat and life are outpourings of your Love to me. I am filled by you. Thank you.

My Beloved, the further I look at your creation the deeper I become in awe of you. The grandest of the grand to the tiniest of form proclaim your elegance. The intricate perfection of your designs are miraculous. I am awestruck at the creations of my beloved. I rest in knowing your gifts to me are boundless and evermore given. I am fully surrendered to you my beloved.

Track 8 The Timeless Place

My Beloved, life is not seen with eyes nor touched by hands. The ear does not hear Loves voice. These things are from Love but Love is seen through the eyes of Love, touched by the body of Love, and heard with the ears Love possesses. Long after my body temple returns to the earth my true body and form shall yet walk with you. Yes, even if time and space and all they hold fade and dissolve, still we will remain, beloved within Beloved. I am even now carried and sit with you in this timeless place. I am filled to overflowing.

My Beloved, you are my home. Through our courtyards we visit the gardens, forests, and shorelines of our home. The hearth fire ever burns and the halls are filled with the fragrance of the flowers that stand as living portraits of Loves attributes. Compassion, serenity, the tenderest of touch, they are framed here within each portrait. My Beloved lives here, I am at home.

Track 9 Set Free

My Beloved, you have fashioned a beautiful land for all. The suffering and pain are dissolved by the light within Love here. The captives are freed and the captors removed from power. Love removes all anchors and chains. Bondage is replaced by true freedom and fullness of life. The soul, heart, and spirit surrendered to Love enters this land immediately. Soon, the outer appearance of things aligns with any being unified with Love. I am at one now. My Beloved lifted me to this land. In boundless freedom my whole being gives praise, I am set free.

My Beloved, you look within the heart of all beings. You draw close to the innocent, to those who love your ways. You bring comfort to those journeying to you. You set lights on the pathways and direct winds on the seas to fill sails leading to your shore. You alone are the end of suffering and the abundance of wholeness is your gift. The innocent may be wounded for a season by the unawakened captors as winter befalls. To them the Spring surely and soon arrives. Through the winter you give an inner coat to warm them. All is observed by your ever watchful eyes. Whatever is done to them by another is done to you as well. You feel all that is felt. May I be a light and the wind for all who now turn to you. I am yours my Beloved.

Track 10 The Way Of Love

My Beloved, you show me the way of Love. The winds of all seasons join us here on this path. You hold both the path and all seasons. You hold me in the place beyond paths and seasons. My feet walk upon stones, soft grass, and snow. My face feels the winds of all seasons. My soul knows this place beyond seasons where the way is Love. I am as a dove caught up in a wind swept high above all cloud into the Sun it's self.

My Beloved, the veils that hide me from being seen by man are as clear sky to you. When my limbs return to the earth I will yet be within yours. When my eyes see no more your eyes will give me sight yet again. When I breathe my last breath yours will yet fill me. Lover and beloved shall forever be as the roots and trunk and branches of one tree. The shore lives for the ocean as the ocean is held and thus given life by the shore. Together my Beloved and I ever shall be.

My Beloved, I trust the Love you wash over me. It is the spring waters that ever flow life into my being. Brief are the days here in this body. My true form is held within this sea of Love. Contained within my body for a brief time is my true being. I am ever immersed in this Love and am this Love.

Track 11 Where Hearts Leap

My Beloved, my heart leaps and is overwhelmed in the beauty of the life Love has given me. The Sun on my face warms me as all cares dissolve in its rays. The radiance of Love sustains both the Sun and my being. It is held within my heart where Springtime ever blossoms. From this embrace both the Sun and I are held in the loving fullness of the giver of life. My whole being is filled with the radiance of this Love.

My Beloved, shoreline waves soothe my spirit as you enter its lullaby. The whispering of the breeze caressing all it touches carries your voice. Holy stillness holds your melody and song. Birds chant in communion with it all. I am in awe of your majesty. I have melted into the beauty of your song and become one with these waves and breeze. You join me here as our hearts leap.

Track 12 Your Loving Gaze

My Beloved, my body is weighted to the earth in its density. The world of man would bait me with glitter and promises of comfort. The snares within the world of man are baited with false enticements that enslave. We are far removed from these snares. The traps the deceiver has laid for me shall remain empty. My comfort is given me by my Beloved my home is the castle built by Love. My comfort is given me by the fashioner of all that is good and springs from Loves sea.

My Beloved, your loving gaze is ever watching over me. Your ears listen for my whispering. Softly and tenderly you are ever about me filling my being with yours. Gentle is our communion, eternal our oneness. I am ever mindful of your presence. My gaze ever is filled in your wonder, my ears filled with your song, my being within yours.

My Beloved, you are my teacher. Knowledge and wisdom are gifts you lavish upon me. To those who turn to you freely is given true treasures. Your truth sets free. It reveals what is hidden from the stumbling ones believing their books are trustworthy. The book you give me is written within your own heart and can only be read from there. All sciences, history, and the ways of all that is lay within your Supreme mind. You alone are the sure teacher. All that is, ever has been, or shall be is already known by you and lay within your being. Freely you bid lovers of wisdom entrance to your library written yet not upon pages nor with words. You give directly through the heart. Your speech is clear.

Track 13 The Secret Place

My Beloved, together we mingle in the place set apart. The secret place where Love reveals all its beauty. The sacred path led me here. Time is the eternal now where lover and beloved are given eternity to bask in the gifts fashioned by the Supreme Lover. Infinite awareness is shared here. Infinite Love eternally celebrated is the land the sacred path led to. Within the heart of Love I now give my whole being.

My Beloved, all who turn to you are fully received. Love gives unto Love. Those that willingly receive your Love are filled. Those that express your Love are given more to give. Love is an infinite sea that desires its lover to swim within it. Here I have become this sea and give my all as well. Within this sea the purpose of life and all existence is known. Within this breath I drink the entirety of this sea and breathe out Love to all. Through this breath the deserts within mans spirits are filled with this life giving water.

Track 14 The Sacred Circle

My Beloved, in their fear the unawakened in vain build a world separate from you. You are the light and only source of all that brings fullness of life. Darkness has no source and is the absence of light. Stumbling in the dark the unawakened bring suffering in their endless need to gratify what cannot be gratified through separation. Our Love is the bridge for all. The moment any turn to see the Love that ever shines the darkness dissolves and suffering ends. The sacred path is revealed to all who turn towards it.

My Beloved, in this moment I join with all others who have entered the sacred circle. Here, Love and the visions Love has is cast into the hearts of all upon the earth. Healing, vibrant life, fully surrendered beings now entering our circle is sent to all upon the earth now. Our Love is greater than any separation from it. All are now invited to join us here.

My Beloved I Love you, I thank you, I Love you!